

Fundraising Event Toolkit & Guide

Help us have the best cancer care!

Community fundraisers are key to raising dollars to support cancer patients in Saskatchewan. Like the one Rose did baking 12 dozen cookies to sell for her Bubba who was going through cancer treatment at the Saskatoon Cancer Centre. We are fortunate to benefit from the generous support of many individuals as young as Rose and others who plan fundraisers throughout the province because they or a loved one has been touched by cancer.

Every dollar donated stays in Saskatchewan, helping over 6,100 cancer patients diagnosed each year.

Event planning doesn't have to be hard. The key is giving yourself enough time to plan and having an action plan for when things go a little sideways. Events often take longer to plan than you might think so ensure you have enough time before your event date. Need some help? The Cancer Foundation of Saskatchewan staff will support you as much as possible! Follow our steps to make your event a success.

When submitting your application, please keep in mind the following:

- Event Licenses; insurance and liquor, security deposits and any other legal or contract requirements are the sole responsibility of the event organizer. The Foundation will not assume any liability for your event.

Step 2:

Form a planning committee to share the workload so everyone can have fun! Ask for volunteers to help with your event. Find people for securing the venue, organizing the food and beverages; acquiring prizes; advertising, printing posters, tickets; asking for corporate or community sponsorships; social media; recruiting speakers; entertainment; and most important, someone to handle the donations and expenses for your event.

Step 3:

Let the FUN begin!

- Set realistic goals and make a budget. Be sure to include items such as the items in step 2. Ask us for an event budget template and a donation tracking template if you need them.
- Create your planning committee to help you with your event idea, date, time, venue and assign them or ask them their expertise for roles and responsibilities. 'Who's doing What, When, Where and How?'
- Volunteers are so important, your job as the event planner is to keep them busy, on track and the committee always informed.
- Ask companies or community organizations who may be interested in supporting your event for help to cover some of your expenses.

- If your event requires support from the Foundation, such as volunteers or for us to speak about the Foundation, please contact us as soon as you know your date, to book our availability in the province. Call us at (639) 625-2012 or email us at info@cancerfoundationsask.ca.
- Promote your event - Give your Community Something to Talk About! Consider approaching TV, radio, newspapers and use social media. To partner with the Foundation, please ask for permission to use our CFS Proud Supporter Logo. Keep in mind, the Foundation requires final approval of all items produced with our branding.
- Be sure to post on social media during your event and encourage others to do the same. Tag the Foundation in your posts on Facebook @cancerfoundationsaskatchewan and on Instagram and Twitter @cancerfdnsask.
- Contact us to fundraise with your own donation page on our website. This is a convenient way for people to make their donations on-line and to instantly receive a charitable tax receipt. Please note sponsorships can't be processed on our website as they are not eligible for a charitable tax receipt. Contact us if you need further information about sponsorships.

Step 4:

Once your event is over. You Did It! Breathe!!!

- Deduct all event expenses before sending the proceeds to the Foundation. As the event organizer, you are responsible for all costs related to the event and will handle all monies.
